for enhanced business growth within the South Coast Air Quality Management District region.

- Construction of liquefied natural gas (LNG) regasification facilities to address the need for new sources of natural gas.

The Brea Chamber of Commerce Opposes:

- Government attempts to enter into public service enterprises in which the private sector is currently engaged, unless a compelling and necessary public interest can be demonstrated and is currently unmet.
- The uneconomic bypass of California PUC-regulated utility systems by federally regulated systems as it underutilizes existing capacity and increases costs for all remaining ratepayers while impacting local municipalities.
- Local government efforts to generate revenues through the use of utility-related costs (i.e. street cut fees, utility user taxes, unjustified operational/maintenance regulations), which result in increased costs to residents and businesses.

Environmental Regulation

Objective:

The Brea Chamber of Commerce recognizes that environmental protection and economic development are not mutually exclusive goals and supports a balance between environmental regulation and economic security. The Chamber will work diligently to protect our environment without sacrificing economic prosperity. Excessive, conflicting, and overlapping requirements among local, state, and federal jurisdictions and across media (i.e., air, water, solid waste) can create inefficiencies that stifle job creation and divert business dollars away from developing products, investing for growth, and adding value to customers and shareholders.

Orange County has a population of over 3 million people, making it the third most populous county in the state, and the sixth most populous in the United States. With more than 200 public agencies providing services to residents, it is essential to ensure the presence of greater efficiency and accountability, without increased fees/taxes, and the direct government competition with private sector for the provision of services.

- Elimination of unfunded state mandates.

Healthcare

The Brea Chamber of Commerce promotes public-private partnerships to expand affordable health care coverage for all citizens in order to maximize free market options and choices, and to minimize government mandates upon employers, insurers and providers. Orange County companies have a significant interest in ensuring that quality healthcare is delivered efficiently in a safe environment at an affordable price. The Chamber recognizes that it is essential for policymakers to evaluate the current healthcare delivery system and to use existing resources more efficiently. Housing and Land Use

Objective:

The Brea Chamber of Commerce supports policies that facilitate and assist the creation of a full range of housing options necessary to accommodate Brea's population and economic growth, and supports applicable development that provides necessary supply of homes to meet the workforce needs of employers. The Chamber works with local government and landowners to assure that sufficient housing is available within the City of Brea and surrounding areas to accommodate the economic development in Brea. The Brea Chamber of Commerce recognizes that the best land use policy and regulatory frameworks should be advocated for when meeting California's housing, business, and community infrastructure needs.

- State and local fiscal reform to permit cities and counties to make land use decisions based on good planning principals rather than upon potential tax revenue generation.

- Initiatives encouraging residential developments emphasizing alternative forms of transportation.
- Regional planning and shared local government responsibility for meeting regional housing needs.

- Legislative and regulatory barriers to the construction of homes that are needed to meet member business employment needs.
- Forms of rent control due to proven record of reducing affordable housing.
- Urban limit lines, moratoriums or other such measures that stifle housing creation.
- Unfair application of zoning laws where businesses are unreasonably or unfairly treated.
- State and local adoption of inclusionary zoning.
- Comprehensive ballot-box land use planning that contradicts "good planning" or contributes to a constrained housing supply for a growing workforce.

Privatization and Governmental Outsourcing

Objective:

The Brea Chamber promotes policies that maintain a competitive business environment in the City of Brea, the County of Orange, and the State of California. For local business to be competitive in the global economy, it is fundamental that the high cost of doing business in California be reduced. The chamber acknowledges that it is essential for the state and cities to protect a diverse and skilled workforce able to compete in an increasingly global market.

The Brea Chamber of Commerce Supports:

- Government outsourcing work that is readily performed by the private sector.
- Encourage the government to include performance incentives in the RFB/RFP process to reward service excellence and timelines in completion of services.
- Encourage the government to conduct either an annual or bi-annual performance audit to further identify areas in which outsourcing would result in a more efficient and well-managed government.
- Local control over state control on local issues.
- Preferences to local business when outsourcing for goods and services.
- Consideration of the long-term costs of government sector work including pensions.

LEGISLATIVE POLICY POSITIONS

Draft January, 2017

Taxation, Fees, and Assessments

Objective:

The Brea Chamber supports a taxation policy that is simplified and fair to consumers and businesses. The chamber believes that businesses already pay adequate taxes, and additional tax increments will detrimentally affect commerce in the city and the state, and impede economic growth.

The Brea Chamber of Commerce Supports:

- Balanced local, state, and federal budgets
- Fiscal reform that enables long-term stable funding sources for essential public services and infrastructure during positive/negative economic cycles.
- Elimination of unfunded state mandates and the equitable redistribution of sales and property taxes.

Telecommunications

Objective:

The delivery of advanced data services is important to the future of Brea's economy. The smooth flow of goods, services, and information within and without the City is critical to the economy, and requires an efficiently coordinated communications infrastructure. - Streamlining of local permitting requirements for the placement of infrastructure necessary to implement advanced broadband network.

- Municipal "third tier" regulation (i.e., imposition of local franchise requirements), which slows the implementation of network infrastructure while increasing consumers' costs for telecommunications services.
- City-owned utilities from offering telecommunications services.
- Undue regulation by industry boards such as the California Public Utilities Commission and the Federal Communications Commission.

Litigation Reform

Objective:

The Chamber believes Orange County businesses will be more viable and competitive by ensuring a secure, legal backdrop for conducting commerce. The perception that California is not a business-friendly state is due, in part, to a legal system that is inefficient, expensive and slow to respond to real needs. Litigation reform is needed to halt the crippling effects of unwarranted, excessive, and frivolous lawsuits on businesses, consumers, and taxpayers.

LEGISLATIVE POLICY POSITIONS

Draft January, 2017

- Facilitate tort reform to limit frivolous lawsuits and limit recoveries for non-economic losses and attorney fee awards.
- Laws that ensure consumers are fully informed of their rights and options when hiring a contingency fee attorney.

Transportation

Objective:

A well-maintained community infrastructure supporting economic expansion and the efficient movement of people, goods, and services is essential for economic wellbeing of the City of Brea. Brea must strive for a transportation system that meets the growing needs of the business community and the general populace while enhancing the community's overall quality of life. The Chamber recognizes that the business community and private sector participation and investment, as well as innovative project delivery, are key to meeting the transportation needs of the City, and the County. The Chamber promotes safe, efficient, and cost-effective sound transportation policies.

Water and Wastewater Management

Objective:

California's economy, jobs and water are inexorably linked. A clean, adequate, reliable, and affordable water supply is crucial to support the economic health of the state and that of the City of Brea. Workers' Compensation Reform

Objective:

The Chamber supports a fair, fact-based workers' compensation system that keeps employer costs to a minimum, while offering proportionate benefits to legitimately injured workers. In 2004 Governor Schwarzenegger signed SB 899 which completely overhauled California's workers' compensation system. Despite the positive effects noted after initial evaluation of the reform, significant work yet remains to be done. - Administration of the worker's compensation system to streamline the determination of disability, delivery of benefits, and decisions regarding the employee's ability to return to work.
- Tort reform to prevent abuse of the system.
- Timely processing and reporting of claims.

Workplace Issues

Objective:

The Chamber supports cost-effective reforms in building a strong, stable workforce while maintaining a safe workplace in compliance with government regulations. The California business community has been plagued with an abused worker's compensation system, a complex worker classification system, and skyrocketing health care costs. Coupled with expansions in employer liability and minimum wage increases, businesses have been struggling to compete in the local, national, and the global stage. These issues increase costs, limit flexibility and stifle business development within California and the City of Brea. The Chamber believes that public policies should enable businesses to respond competitively to new opportunities while promoting a safe environment for employees, to enable business owners to thrive.
